

BRAND: ALTURA
PRODUCT: THERMOCOOL BASELAYER
PUBLICATION: CYCLING WEEKLY
PAGE: 38 RIGHT
DATE: 12 JANUARY 2017
REVIEW: 8 OUT OF 10
REVIEWER: SYMON LEWIS

Altura Thermocool £49.99

Altura has done a great job at pushing the brand forward, creating new ranges and offering something to suit all cyclists from your daily commuter to professional athletes.

Its base layer utilises Altura Dry technology designed to be as fast-wicking as possible. It worked enough to keep me comfortable even during fast-paced rides.

Thermocool promises to help regulate body temperature and it seems to work as I never suddenly felt hot or cold on my rides. It is one of the warmer base layers on test, coping well with temperatures below five degrees. For those who really feel the cold, this is an important factor to consider.

Best thing about this base layer, though, is the fit that is classed as 'performance'. It hugs the skin well and is soft to the touch, providing perfect moisture-wicking.

Weight
120
grams

8

Size tested: S

Sizes: S-XL

www.zyrofischer.co.uk

